

Looking to bring people together in a challenging, new and inspiring setting? Consider Cloudsplitter Mountain Guides.

For groups seeking professional instruction and a rewarding climbing experience, Cloudsplitter offers Group Programs led by AMGA certified guides for school groups, camps, businesses, and other organizations. The low guide to client ratio of 1:4 promotes flexible programming by allowing large groups to split up and explore multiple crags. In a small group setting, instructors are able to cater to different skill levels and implement multiple teaching progressions over the course of the day. With the long-term use of these popular sites in mind, Cloudsplitter strives to uphold the principles of Leave-No-Trace by providing careful group management in the context of an engaging climbing experience.

A day with Cloudsplitter represents a unique opportunity for novice to intermediate climbers to gain exposure to the sport in a setting where they can explore their limits with minimal risk and consequence. Guides will select a mix of appropriate objectives for the day, review relevant skills and provide on-going instruction and coaching. Group programs are offered at a flat rate of $110 per person, with a maximum enrollment of four participants per guide.
